Crystal Stairs CEO among 'Women Who Dared'

Organization's Leader to be Honored by the California Black Women's Health Project

LOS ANGELES – Wednesday, March 16 – Jackie B. Majors, CEO of Crystal Stairs, Inc., an organization at the helm of child care issues facing Los Angeles County, will be honored alongside D'Ann Morris, Deputy Neighborhood Officer-Health for the Los Angeles Urban League and Dominique DiPrima, Host of KJLH's early morning talk show, The Front Page, by the California Black Women's Health Project on Thursday, March 31 at The Los Angeles City Club.

The event, which highlights the achievements of women who have made significant contributions in the lives of women, diligently promoted women's rights, or have worked tirelessly to educate women, has honored women leaders such as Nancy Wilson, Debbie Allen, Bebe Moore Campbell, Angela Bassett and Representative Karen Bass, to name a few. Majors will be recognized for her commitment to helping improve the lives of women and girls in Los Angeles County during the organization's 21st Annual Women Who Dared: Our Legacy and Our Future Gala.

"As a voice for the children and families from many of the neediest communities in South Los Angeles, it is an honor to be recognized for helping combat the challenges families, primarily single mothers, face," said Majors. "I am deeply committed to educating children, empowering families and strengthening communities."

Through her leadership at Crystal Stairs, Majors has worked tirelessly to empower families and ensure they have access to the essential resources and enhanced support services needed to gain greater self-sufficiency. Together, with Morris, DiPrima and the California Women's Health Project, Majors will continue to make significant strides in addressing the needs of women and girls in Los Angeles County.
